

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

---

The Loudest Rock: 60 Years of Pirate Radio
2 March 2009 – 10 April 2009
Opening Reception: Thursday, 5 March 2009
5 – 8 p.m.

The Walsh Gallery at Seton Hall University will be hosting the exhibition, “The Loudest Rock: 60 Years of Pirate Radio,” a show dedicated to the history and achievements of the WSOU radio station. The exhibition is co-curated by Jake Calvert, Brooke Cheyney and Kate Fox, all of whom are second-year Museum Professions graduate students at Seton Hall. “The Loudest Rock” will explore the evolution of WSOU, a once small, campus radio station which has transformed into a nationally recognized, non-commercial radio force that has become a leading forum in music, band promotion, broadcast technology, news coverage, special programming and sports broadcasting.

The exhibition will bring to light the many facets of WSOU's history; student involvement, technological advancements, and the station's ever-evolving music and educational programming. Gold and platinum records from world-famous artists, signed posters, photographs, and other memorabilia will be featured along with interactive computer and listening stations, as well as a mock broadcast studio setup and a selection of the station's many achievement awards. The Walsh Gallery is free and open to the public Monday through Friday 10:30am to 4:30pm. An exhibition brochure will be available at the gallery.

For 150 years, Seton Hall University has been a catalyst for leadership, developing the whole student, mind, heart and spirit. Seton Hall combines the resources of a large university with the personal attention of a small liberal arts college. Its attractive suburban campus is only 14 miles by train, bus or car to New York City, with the wealth of employment, internship, cultural and entertainment opportunities the city offers. Seton Hall is a Catholic university that embraces students of all races and religions, challenging each other to better the world with integrity, compassion and a commitment to serving others. For more information, see www.shu.edu.

